

ABSTRACT

An apparatus and methods for evaluating the performance of a company that provides a plurality of pre-selected responses to each query that are objectively answerable based on observed behaviors of the employee is disclosed. The apparatus includes an input device, a data storage device, a processor and an output device. Further, the apparatus and methods may analyze the evaluation data.

...